At the recent regatta there he was the most auccessful stroke of the day and therefore came in for the largest share of the praise. The Hyogo Neics says :-In the club pairs Shepherd took F. L. Marshall's place, and though his bow was forty pounds heavier, both worked with such vigour and good will, that they turned anticipated defeat into a signal victory. In the remaining two races (double sculls and scratch fours) Shepherd sguinexcelled, winning the double sculls with Hausell with the greatest case and coming home first in the scratch crew.

We f near that their object has now been achieved. The plant for compressing the air is located ontside the Planey Gate and the air led away in pipes to the pullers, thus obvisting any objection there might be to having machinery working near the barracks. Compressed air appears to be admirably adapted as a motive power, as there is no difficulty in getting rid of the exhaust, such as there would be if steam or water power were used. This system of pulling punkaha is apecially suitable for barracks, offices, and other large buildings where the punkaha can be arranged in fairly long :

Hongkong, 27th June, 1892. Str. - The following few remarks may perhaps colighten a number of the interestd public and those who have been addressing the press on the subject of Volunteering. The present Corps,-There has never been any intention of doing away with such a branch of the service-viz. Garrison Artillery, a most scientific and essential factor in the defence of this Island-until members failed and it was impossible to carry on the work required. Good work has been done in the past; the same can be done in the inture but not without men. If they will not join voluntarily, the sugar-plums that may be held out in the future will not make matters better. A Volunteer a man who serves by his own choice, joins without any pressing, or to oblige a friend, is the man The resources of this corps have been severely taxed, and the burden of work thrown upon the few willing members has been so heavy that the Acting Commandant had no alternative but recommand disbandment under the existing Rules. It is simply impracticable to bring pressure to bear on paper men' in a small place like this. Directly, for breach of discipline, you apply any of the Rules, you are generally met by the usual counter-attack. Owing to my business duties I am unable &c., &c., and beg herewith to tender my resignation. When such men join there is no way of testing their sincerity beyond the promise to drill regularly; therefore to hold a man more to his word strict discipline is really necessary To obtain this the supreme command should rest on some military official, as it is a most unpleasant duty for the Volunteer Commandant of a corps here to have to adopt extreme measures, such as enforcing fines for non-attendance at Drills and Parades. The fact of a case being sent before a mili tary anthority to be dealt with would naturatiy make a slack man more careful. There is not the slightest doubt that. the present officer in command of the H. K. V.A. could guarantee 50 certain and efficient gunners, the Governor would sanction the actual expenditure on the same basis as at present. Surely 6) men suitable for Garrison Artillery can be found. The plaintiff, Mr St. John Hancock, arch- This number would allow for absent from port, of course, in the shape of encourageof establishments or companies. Now disease? I venture to affirm that they
